

Here you will discover our round-up of Greece's leading interior designers who are influential, innovative, and creative. So, get ready to catch a glimpse of their aesthetically pleasing projects and strong sense of style that will help you come away with amazing ideas for your own abode.

Anestis Michalis

First on our list of top interior designers in Greece is Anestis Michalis who has a natural artistic instinct for minimalist design. Creating warmth in every space he touches, Anestis has worked on many hotels and residential properties throughout Greece. "I use aesthetics and the placement of certain objects to ensure the key piece in a room stands out. I believe you only need a few (but good) items to make a statement and I don't care to follow trends as they are driven by commercial purposes," says Anestis.

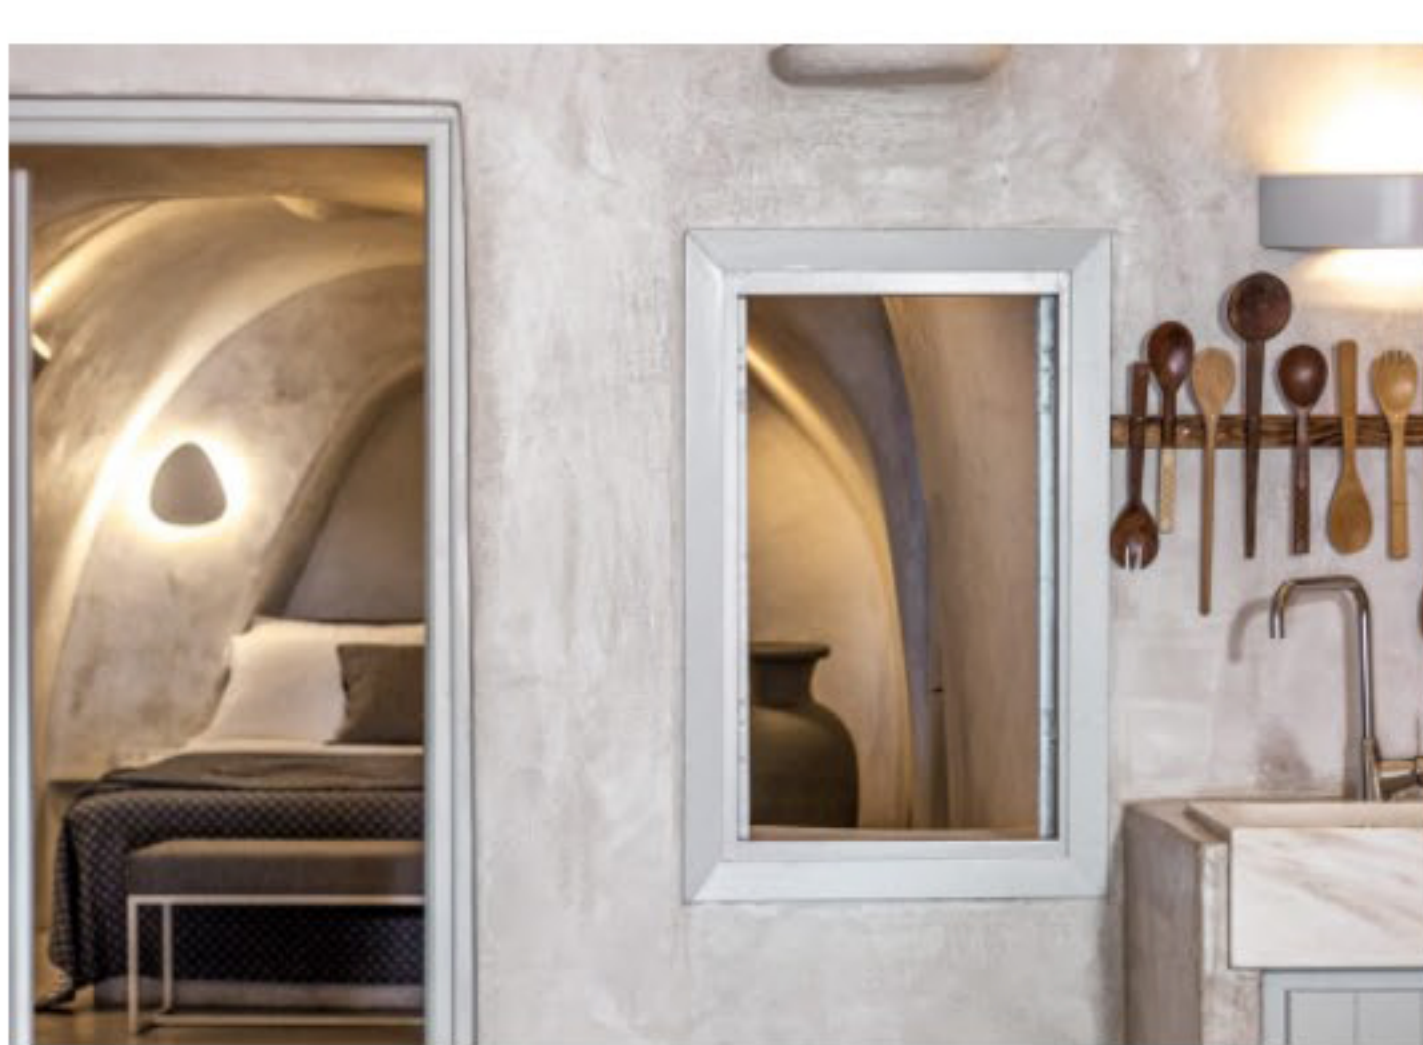

Stamos Hondrodimos

Leading interior designer Stamos Hondrodimos is the creator and founder of boutique firm Interior Design Laboratorium, which is based in Athens. "With every project, the aim is to create a unique environment that will leave a lasting impression on its visitors. The common denominator of all projects is the careful, holistic design and attention to detail. We use natural materials that integrate from the surrounding landscape and make reference to tradition."

Marilyn Katsaris

With an elegant sense of style and a sharp eye for detail, Marilyn Katsaris has become one of Greece's most sought after interior designers. Striving to create sophisticated spaces that will be appreciated and admired by her clients, Marilyn's impressive portfolio includes retail stores, restaurants, private residences, bars, and hotels located in Greece, London, and New York.

Maria Chatzistavrou

Award-winning interior designer Maria Chatzistavrou is the founder of LIMEDECO, which specialises in the interior architecture of hotels, lodges, private villas, and residences, as well as professional and commercial spaces. "We work with our clients and partners to achieve a result that connects people with their space. Each project is composed of a unique and sensitive approach to space, location, architecture, and of course the client's vision," says Maria.

Costas Andreou

Costas Andreou is an interior stylist who was born in London, educated in NYC, and now based in Athens. Having collaborated with clients across a variety of industries, Costas' creative flair can be viewed at a number of Greek hotels, cafes, bars, and homeware stores, including Nima Home, Concierge Athens Hotel, Monika's Café Bar, Formika Design Store in Athens and Akrotiri Hotel in Santorini.
